The following are excerpts from the catalogue to accompany the show by Flavia Rando:

"Painted in reds and gilded with aluminum and gold leaf, Azara's sculpture has the exuberant extravagance of deep faith - the bleeding and radiance that has always summoned and praised the divine."

"Themes of celebration and mourning, vulnerability, and power are recapitulated in Azara's wall sculptures: fragments of a sacred architecture that honors the realms denied consecration (in the Western construct) and memorializes the cost of that denial."

There will be a concurrent show of additional sculptures and collages at A.I.R. Gallery 40 Wooster Street New York City 10013 (212) 966-0799 from November 15 through December 3, 1994. The A.I.R. exhibition reception is November 17 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Both exhibitions will be curated by Ronald Sosinski, Director of E.M.
Donahue Gallery.
